

Erin Reynolds and Sally Dryburgh have been teamed together for Max Potential 2018.

Erin glad she took opportunity

MAX POTENTIAL

ERIN Reynolds from Kandos is glad she looked into the program as she prepares for her upcoming community service project.

"I chose to do Max Potential because not many people at my school knew about it and it seemed interesting and like it could be a good experience, which could also possibly lead me to having new skills that I could use throughout my life," she said. "At first I didn't think I would like it, but I am now glad that I did take the opportunity. I would recommend other kids my age to take part in this as well, because it broadens your knowledge and understanding of goals and opportunities."

Erin is also in the irregular position of sharing coach Sally Dryburgh with fellow KHS student Zowie Roberts. "I was a bit nervous about which coach I would get but when I found out we were getting Sally we were really glad," she said.

Sally added, "it's my fifth year and first one with two young adults, it's great because they bounce ideas off each other, which really helps them because they've got that peer level as well".

Erin will be heading to her local aged care facilities for her community service project. "I will be spending time with the elderly, and a few of my friends will be helping, by doing some activities for them," she said. "Including making slime to help exercise their hands, as well as singing and having a chat. I think this will help me connect with others throughout life and it will also help remind me to be thankful for the experiences I've had so far with this journey."
