

Gaming day for locals at the Stables

July 25, 2014, 4 a.m

Gamers get together at the Stables for a day of video games.

Cameron Howe, Lana Bannick and Jesse Barnes play a little Mario Kart 8.

William Eade celebrates a victory over Tim O'Reilly.

Local teens had a day of video games at the Stables on Saturday, racing, fighting and shooting on systems ranging from the Playstation 3 to the old-school Sega Megadrive and Nintendo Entertainment System.

The day was organised by Max Potential participant Russell Bulliman, who saw it as a great recreational activity for local young people who weren't playing sport on the weekend.

In a father and son battle, Ray Bulliman takes on Russell Bulliman in Tekken.

Gamers get together at the Stables for a day of video games.

Cameron Howe, Lana Bannick and Jesse Barnes play a little Mario Kart 8.